ELECTROLYSIS REINVENTED^(*)Available at selected stores)

Is electrolysis painful?

The treatment is executed so rapidly that the sensation is barely perceptible. Just a few thousandths of a second suffice to eliminate the hair! With such a high level of comfort, the Apilus is the ideal solution for stubborn hair, or hair that is grey or blonde, which cannot successfully benefit from laser treatments

Is electrolysis slow?

At TLB we use the revolutionary Apilus electrolysis system which uses the ultrarapid 27.12 MHz frequency to permanently destroy all hair types. Because its power is greater and its frequency is up to 6 times faster than any other epilator, this treatment is faster and more effective than ever before.

Can I treat grey, white, ginger or blonde hair?

You can finally say goodbye to ALL unwanted hair, whether it be facial hair or body hair. This technology is efficient, very comfortable and safe for everyone! Thanks to the ultra-rapid frequency and TLB exclusive techniques, the Apilus system offers a level of comfort never before experienced with electrolysis applications.

Which areas can be treated?

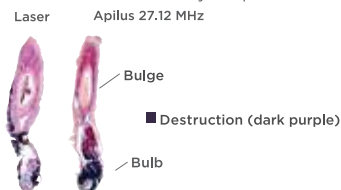

All areas of the body can be treated using electrolysis, but we must be able to see the hair to remove it. Medical clearance from your GP is required to treat hairs that grow from moles.

How many treatments will I need?

This depends on many factors, for example, how dense the hair is, whether the hair is hormonal, if it has previously been waxed or plucked and the area of the body that requires treatment. Hair grows at different rates all over the body. Hair on the head will grow for a period of up to 3 years before falling out, yet hair on our legs may only last 12 weeks. This means it may take 12 weeks for all the hairs on the legs to show before they can be treated. We can only treat the hairs we can see. Some hairs may require several treatments. As a general rule, under normal circumstances, you can expect to be hair free in treated areas after 8-18 months assuming that the suggested treatment program has been followed.

ELECTROLYSIS Q&A

What if I am pregnant?

It is not recommended for pregnant women to receive Electrolysis treatments during the first three months of pregnancy. This is to keep stress to a minimum during this higher-risk period. Thermolysis is completely safe for pregnant women as the treatment is delivered through heat not electrical current
